

Ilze Bērziņa - Ruķere

Latvia

Expert profile (Police)

Ilze Berzina – Ruķere is an expert working on the issues on police and human rights, projects on police accountability and community policing, including community policing for prevention of radicalization. She has working experience in state, non-governmental sector and academic sector (teaching community policing and human rights courses). Author of the publications about the issues of accountable policing, policing with society and feeling of security. Former chairwomen of the European Union Crime Prevention Network during Latvian presidency. Currently working as a project team leader of the European Commission Internal Security fund national Cybercrime prevention project and lecturing at the Riga University of Stradina. She has a master degree in International Human Rights Law from the Institute of Raul Wallenberg of Human Rights and Humanitarian Law in Lund. Sweden.